Married in Quaker Style.

A rather unusual instrument in writing was filed in the county recorder's office a few days ago, it being the record of the marriage, on Christmas day, of Mr. Marion Hollingsworth, of Wilmington College, and Miss Grace Huff, the charming daughter of Mr. W. H. H. Huff, of Leesburg. They were united in marriage in the Quaker style and the following description of the event published in the Leesburg Citizen will be of interest to hundreds of our readers who are not familiar with the custom:

"At high noon on Christmas day the marriage of Mr. Marion Hollingsworth and Miss Grace E. Huff of this place was solemnized according to the ancient custom of the Society of Friends. Their intentions were made known in November before the organized body of the church known as Fairfield Monthly Meeting. One month later, no objection having been presented, the Monthly Meeting appointed a committee to attend the marriage and to see that it was properly conducted. John McMillen, Esther McMillen, Charles E. Fairley and Winnie Fairley were named on this committee.

A special meeting was granted to be held on Christmas day at the home of the bride. The contracting parties repeated the marriage vows without the aid of a minister and signed the marriage certificate, the bride taking the name of her husband. The committee then had the certificate read aloud and signed by all who witnessed the ceremony.

The clerk of the Monthly Meeting John Shackelford, will give the county recorder a certified copy of the record of the proceedings, with an affadavit attached. Thit will be placed on the county records and no marriage li will be required by the laws of Ohio.

Only the near relatives, the committee from the meeting and a few other church people were present. The groom took the bride directly to the home of his aged father near Jamestown, Ohio, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The groom is professor of Chemistry in Wilmington College at which place Miss Huff was at one time Professor of Greek.

Miss Dorothy Daly, of Bainbridge, who was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Theo. Perin, returned home Saturday.

Ira King, a prominent business man of Sardinia, committed suicide at Peebles last Saturday morning by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. The members of the King Lumber Co., which was composed of Mr. King and his father, brothers and other relatives, had met for the purpose of holding the annual meeting of the Co. in the main office at Peebles Suddenly Mr. King excused himself and went out into the back yard and a moment later the report of a revolver was heard. The men rushed out and found him lying dead in the yard with a bullet hole in his head and the revolvee lying by his side.

He was an active business man and had a number of large interests and it is supposed that the worry over their management unsettled his mind and led him to do the deed. It is not known whether he was in financial straits or not but the following note he left for his wife would indicate such a possibility. The note is as follows:

"Dear Cora,—I am doing this awful act as I think it is for the best. I have tried ever since we were married to make a good living and to accomplish something and make everything pleasant for you, but it is impossible for me to do so and God will provide for you and my sweet little children, so good-by, I am gone.—Ira."

In addition to his other enterprises Mr. King had for the past two or three years the trustee in bankruptcy for Geo. Kennedy, of Sardinia, in which about $50,000 was originally involved. It is said about $10,000 should be in King's hands for distribution to creditors. Following his suicide, Chas. T. Greve, of Cincinnati, the referee in bankrurtcy, sent out notices to creditors for a meeting to be held at his office on Jan. 23, when King's accounts will be audited and a new trustee appointed. The funeral of King was held at Peebles on Monday and the body interred at that place. He was aged about 38 years and leaves a wife and three children.

Letter From an Old Friend.

SHELTON, NEB, Jan. 2, 1914.

Editor Hillsboro Gazette:

In remitting for the Gazette, permit me to say that for two substantial reasons I would seriously regret to be compelled to discontinue the paper. First, because it is to me an old friend, I having taken the paper so many years my attachment to it has become very strong; and secondly it is like a letter from home.

Having been born near and lived around Hillsboro for thirty years, my attachment to the good people of the town is also very great, and in my absence from it the Gazette keeps me in touch with its people, its enterprises, its growth and general progress along all lines. The people of Hillsboro occupy a warm spot in my heart and pleasant are the memories that I cherish of the people with whom I lived and mingled for so long a time, and should my life be spared long enough I hope to enjoy a visit with its people. Very sincerely yours;

CARY VANCE

In Memoriam.

When the anticipated joy of Christmas was at its zenith, and loved ones were making and selecting gifts from the ubiquitous Santa Claus, a shadow crossed the sky of our hopes. We were shocked by the sad news, Judge Steele is dead. The friend of our girlhood, womanhood and in riper years was not, for God had taken him. A gentleman of the old school, always a gentleman, with a pleasing personality that attracted all who came in touch with him. The able lawyer, the just Judge whose opinions were not words but golden thoughts of wisdom, "had wrapped the drapery of his couch about and laid down to pleasant dreams." In looking backward a few years ago, four friends, my brother, Joseph J. McDowell, Thomas Hibben, Charles A. Sheafe and S. F. Steele "have crossed the bar." The remembered joys of our association come to me as treasured leaflets from memories page and I feel like one "who treads alone."

For the cultured wife, of whom Judge Steele was justly proud, the interesting and cheery sister and his attractive daughters my heartstrings throb with the tender sympathy of one who knew him but to love him The real comfort for sorrows crown of sorrow is prayer and I would refer you to the gem of Willis when writing of David's lament over Absalom's death "When bitter thoughts come crowding up for utterance how much the heart may relieve itself by prayer."

Obituary.

William F. Chaney, son of Nathan and Rachel Chaney, was born Feb. 13, 1857, and died Nov. 29, 1913, in his fifty-seventh year.

He was the seventh of twelve children, four sisters and one brother being left to mourn their loss.

On December 24, 1878, he was married to Lizzie S. Morrow, who, with seven children and one grand-child, survives him. One child, Arthur, died in infancy.

He spent the greater part of his married life in the vicinity of Samantha. He was kind husband, an indulgent father and a good neighbor. We sorrow because we will miss him and are sad and lonely not because we have no hope for we know he has gone to be with Christ, which is far better.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our loved one.—Mrs. Lizzie S. Chaney and family.

Miss Lena McCoppin, who was the guest of her mother here, returned on Monday to resume her duties as instructor in music at the Methodist University, in Louisiana.

L Phillips Shawe, of Providence, R. I., was the guest of friends here last Friday and Saturday. He was on his way home after having been in Danville, Ill., to see his father, J.S. Shawe who is quite ill at his home in that city.

R. W. Lyle was a visitor at the home of his parents here, last Saturday. He has been employed as the traveling representative for W. H Stanage & Co. of Cincinnati, for a number of years and enters upon 1914 with a handsome increase in salary which is indicative of his ability to get business and the high esteem in which he is held by the firm.

The Sudden death of O. N. Garrett, the well-known druggist, which occurred last Thursday evening, came as a great shock to the people of this city, few of whom knew that he had been ill when the sad news was sent out. About four o'clock Thursday afternoon he was attacked by a severe case of indigestion, complicated with heart disease and went to Dr. Larkin's office for treatment. His condition was so serious that after giving him some medicine Dr. Larkin took him to his home and in a short time was resting easier. About half after six o'clock Mrs. Garrett administered medicine to him and a moment later he had passed quietly and peacefully away. Mr. Garrett was one of the solid, substantial business men of Hillsboro and was active in all enterprises tending toward the public welfare and enjoyed the respect, confidence and esteem of all who knew him. He was a man of the highest integrity and was a Christian gentleman in every sense of the word His religion was exemplified in his daily life and was not, nor needed to be, heralded from the housetops. He lived his life in accordance with the strictest and best precepts, never criticising others, but always ready to condone the faults or find excuses for those who made mistakes. In a quiet, unostentatious way he aided others in their battles of life, not only in giving wise counsel and advice, but assisting in a material way in relieving the sufferings of unfortunates, as much as his means would allow. Of him it can be truly said that the "world is better for his having lived."

Mr. Garrett was born near Rainsboro in September, 1851, and spent his boyhood days on the farm and later went to Cameron, Mo., where he entered the employ of an uncle, who was engaged in the drug business. Returning here he opened a drug store and has since been engaged in that business here, being the senior and active partner in the well-known firm of Garrett & Ayres. He leaves a widow and and one son, Lloyd, who resides in Morrilton, Arkansas, and who was called here by his father's sudden death. He is survived by four brothers, George L., of this city; Vernon, of Rainsboro; Ora, of Waukomis, Okla, and Edward, of St. Paul, Minn.

For many years Mr. Garrett had been a member of the Board of Deacons of the First Presbyterian Church. The funeral services were held at that church on Sunday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. W. H. Shields, the pastor. In keeping with the character and life of the deceased the services were extremely simple but very impressive. The interment was made at the cemetery here.

Harry H. Lyle, who has been engaged in the trade of horseshoeing in Leesburg for a number of years, has been appointed foreman of the farrier department at the Reform farm, in Chauncey, N. Y., where his brother, Bert, also holds a lucrative position.

Obituary

Jacob Yochum, son of Henry and Eva Yochum, was born in the neighborhood of Bell's Run, Ohio, Nov 1, 1845, and died January 2, 1914, aged sixty-eight years, two months and one day. Funeral preached by Rev. T. J. Melton from text, Job 14:14 and John 11:25.

His parents were born in Germany and immigrated to this country in the early part of the 18th century. They settled in the neighborhood of Bell's Run, in which place their son, Jacob, was born. He was the fifth child in a family of eight, all of whom have preceded him in death except his sister, Marguerite Mignery.

He was confirmed in the Lutheran Church at Arnheim, Ohio, April 6, 1860, and later in life, Feb 22, 1889, united with the Mowrystown Presbyterian Church, of which church he was a loyal and faithful member to the time of his death. He was one of the acting elders of the church since his ordination, Nov. 2, 1909, and has for many years been a teacher in the Sunday School. His faith and trust in God and the Redeeming power of His Son, Jesus Christ, enabled him during the last year of his life to bear patiently and sweetly the infirmity of the flesh, which was a sore affliction to him.

He was united in marriage to Mollie A. Purdy, Jan. 1, 1873. To this union were born four children, all of whom are living.

On Jan. 30, 1884, Mr. Yochum having but a short time before purchased a farm, assuming a rather heavy debt, passed through a very severe trial The tender ties of the home circle were broken, and the sweet young wife and mother answered the call of God and passed out of the home leaving the father heart-broken with the care of four children, the eldest of whom was eight years of age and the youngest a baby but a few days old. But now, as we look over his life, we are inclined to believe that this severe disciplining was but the hand of God touching the life of one whom he had marked for his own, training and leading it into the life of faith and trust, which was characteristic of his life in in later years. Many an evening after a hard day's work he would gather his children together and after preparing them for their night's rest would tuck them away in their little beds and after they had gone to sleep in great loneliness and sadness would fall down on his knees and pour out his soul in prayer, that He who is able to aid and sustain, might help him to father his motherless children. In memory of these hours the children are greatful.

On Oct. 15, 1889, he was married to Miss Anna Houp, of Hillsboro, Ohio, who is today his surviving widow. On last Friday evening, at the closing of the day and as the shadows of evening began to deepen into night, his spirit heard the call of Him in whom he had trusted and we, who are of the faith, firmly believe that he is again united with loved friends he had lost in earlier days and is happier in a Redeemer's love.

He leaves, besides his widow, four children, thirteen grand-children, one sister and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

He was a man of sterling character, honest and honorable in all his dealings with his fellow-men, and a worthy citizen of the community in which he lived. And as we tender him these last rites today, in memory of the love and unselfish devotion to duty for the sake of those whom he loved, we can but look up with the eye of faith and say, "His will, not ours, be done."

Obituary.

Clara Frances Hughes, daughter of Thomas E. and Mary Hogsett, was born in Highland county near Hillsboro May 6, 1868. She was united in marriage to W. C. Hughes February 10, 1889. To this union was born two sons, Roy and Lawrence.

The first ten years of their married life was spent on a farm near Marshall, Ohio. About ten years ago they moved to their present home, four miles east of Hillsboro, on the Marshall pike.

On the fifteenth of October, 1912, Mrs. Hughes had a partial stroke of paralysis, from which she never recovered. She was able to go about and look after her home duties until early in the fall, when her health entirely failed and she gradually went down. For four weeks she was confined to her room and for several days the death angel hovered around and at one o'clock Monday morning he claimed her as his own.

As a neighbor, no one in the community will be more missed than Mrs Hughes. She was always thinking of the comfort of others and her deeds of love and kindness will speak for themselves. She has preached her own funeral sermon by the life she has lived.

She united with the Brouse Chapel Methodist Church at the age of fifteen and was always attached to her church and the people that worshiped there and during her sickness she often spoke of those who had preceded her and sang the old hymns, "Jesus, lover of my soul," "Nearer my God to thee" and "In the Sweet bye and bye."

She was a devoted wife and an affectionate and loving mother.

Her sufferings were great at times, her sorrows frequent and heavy, but God was more than sufficient by His grace to her. Her confidence was in the Lord, she believed in His promises and she was not forgotten in the gathering storm.

I never stand above the bier and see
The seal of death set on some well loved face,
But I think—one more to welcome me
When I shall cross the intervening space
Between this land and that one over there,
One more to make the strange Beyond seem fair.
And so to me there is no sting to death.
And so the grave has lost its victory
It is but crossing, with suspended breath
And white set face, a little strip of sea,
To find the loved ones on the other shore,
More beautiful, more precious than before.

Mary, daughter of Ralph and Mary Stockwell, was born in Washington township, Highland county, Ohio, October 15, 1840, and her spirit passed to the Great Beyond on February 3, 1914, as peacefully and silently as an autumn frost before the morning sun, to receive the reward of the Great Judge of all—aged 73 years, 3 months and 19 days.

In old age, when his work was done, God called him as one of his chosen to his home. Grandpa was waiting and anxious for this call and glad when it came, glad to exchange affliction and pain for a crown of righteousness that awaited him in his home above.

Shortly after the Civil War Mr. Conard was appointed to a position in the Internal Revenue Department and continued in that duty until a few months ago. He was a man of sterling character, one whom everybody regarded with respect and whose friendship was cherished by all. During the early part of the war in the sixties he enlisted in the service, but was finally badly wounded in an engagement in Virginia and he suffered from the injury until the time of his death.

Mr. Conard was married to Miss Ellen Chaney, of this city, in 1869. He was a member of the Methodist Church from which the funeral will be held this morning at 11 o'clock. Just fifty years ago last Tuesday, on March 3, 1864, Rev. Mr. Dudley, a minister of the Methodist denomination, in Blanchester, united in marriage Henry H. Maddox and Miss Alcinda Cummins. Mr. Maddox at that time was a union soldier, and being at home on a furlough on account of having received a wound in battle, the wedding was arranged for and he later returned to his company. At the cessation of hostilities he and his wife removed to this city where they have since resided, Mr. Maddox engaging in the harness business, in which he continued until he was appointed one of the rural mail carriers out of Hillsboro.

In 1885 Mr. Maddox was elected a justice of the peace for Liberty township and served in that capacity for sixteen years. He was no lawyer, but used rare good judgment in his decisions and few of his cases were ever reversed.

At the time of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Maddox those were stormy days for the nation, but to the earnest young soldier and his loyal bride there appeared only sunshine, and during the years that intervened between that happy day and their golden wedding anniversary there has been more sunshine than shadow.

Last Tuesday from ten o'clock in the morning until ten at night the Maddox home on North High street was thrown open to the many friends of the family who came to congratulate Mr. and Mrs Maddox upon having traveled life's pathway for the remarkable number of fifty years, and never did the happy couple, who have always been noted for their extraordinary hospitality, respond more graciously than on this occasion.

The reception rooms were handsomely decorated with jonquils, roses, ferns and yellow ribbon. Almost constantly during the day music was rendered on the piano and several delightful vocal solos were given. In the evening Misses Mabel Lemon and Florence Hilton, assisted by Mrs. C. F. Faris, entertained the guests with a number of selections, using piano, cornet and violin.

Quite a surprise came to Mr. and Mrs. Maddox in the nature of a large number of handsome presents, they having tended to discourage this feature of the occasion.

All of the children were present at the anniversary excepting Mrs. Benj. VanDyke and Mrs. John Steulpnagel, who were unavoidably detained in their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Maddox have been residents of this city for forty-nine years. No friend ever entered their home but found a warm welcome, and the young people were apparently made to feel doubly so, and it is a pleasure to join in congratulating the couple and wish for them many more happy years of companionship.

Jasper H. Keyes, formerly of Hillsboro, and remembered by many of the older citizens of this community, where his boyhood days were spent, died at his home in Lexington, Mich., on February 11 at the age of 78 years. Just recently he had written a very touching tribute to the memory of the late Judge S. F. Steele, of this city, with whom he had been very intimate in his boyhood days, and which was published in the Gazette.

From the News, published at Lexington, Mich., we take the following:

Jasper Hand Keyes was born in Hillsboro, Ohio, on February 6, 1836, and died on February 11, 1914, at his home in Lexington, Mich., aged 78 years.

In the passing of Jasper Hand Kepes from the sphere of his earthly acticities, the community has lost a man, whose journalistic ability was unusual, whose ideas were advanced and broad, and whose courtesy and chivalry are unfailing; a family has lost a husband and father, endeared to their hearts by the thousand beautiful memories of happy years, now past.

Mr. Keyes came from a long line of ancestry, refined and literary. They were originally of Virginian stock, but a branch of the family made their home at Lancaster, Pa., where the family mansion yet stands. General Edward Hand, of revolutionary fame, was his grandfather twice removed. While yet a very young man—about 22 years of age—Mr. Keyes started his first newspaper in Kentucky. From that time until the day of his death—except three years spent fighting under his country's flag—he was engaged in some branch of journalistic work. He was remarkable for his pointed and forceful method of expression, and for a vein of quaint humor which ran through his writings.

In May, 1895, he came to Lexington to begin the publication of the Lexington News, continuing in the business until 1908. Since that time he has made the village his home, and has continued his journalistic work, writing for various newspapers, but for several months had been in declining health until he finally passed away.

Maddox, of this city, and was here last week to attend the golden wedding anniversary of his sister and Mr. Maddox.

Dr. Nellis has had wide experience in evangelistic work, having for several years been a civilian chaplain in the Panama canal zone and formerly a member of the Pennsylvania National Guard. The meetings here created a great deal of interest and large audiences were present at the services. During his work here twenty-nine new members were added to the church.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of Mrs. Edna Roush, who died Mar. 20, 1913.

The month of March again is here,
The saddest one to us in the whole year.
Through all pain she smiled—
A smile of heavenly birth—
And when the angels called her
She smiled farewell to earth.
Heaven retaineth now our treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps;
And the sunbeams love to linger
Where our darling Edna sleeps.

From her loving husband, parents, sister and brothers.

Obituary.

One week ago today, March 8, 1914, Mrs. Wyatt was in her usual health until about 4 o'clock in the evening, when she was suddenly stricken with paralysis while talking with some lady friends, who had called. She had been grieving unusually for several days, and they thought when half of her sentences were aloud and half in a whisper, she was trying to control her voice, when one of them said "You do not feel so well this evening, you ought to have the doctor," and going over to her they found her cold and unable to move her right side. She said, "Oh no, I just want to go home this way." They assisted her to the bed, summoned a physician and her daughter-in-law, who was spending the afternoon with her mother, Mrs. Hilliard, on East Willow street. Dr. Glenn telegraphed for her sons at Sardinia; they came in a machine that night. Every attention was given her but she only spoke a word now and then until she passed away early Saturday morning.

While these women were talking with her and asked if she had been to any of the cottage prayer meetings, she said "No, but I am to have one here on Wednesday; I seldom go away the loneliness is such here when I come back. My husband always went with me to church, he loved me so, and was so good to me, he did so much for me."

It seemed like her love was gushing up to the sky, and among all the gifts that relate humanity to God, the power of loving is the most majestic and beautiful and glorious. When it was given so boundless to each other, why wouldn't she be longing to be with him, in the heavenly home, for love lured her upward.

"History has no great poem, no drama, no novel, whose theme is not home and love and God."

Visions of home on earth inspire us to take vows true and pure, to make this sacred shrine our happy dwelling place, and enlarges our conception of our Heavenly Home. The ties that bind them together are loved ones on earth and loved ones in Heaven, making "heaven nearer and Christ dearer than yesterday to us."

Mrs. Wyatt loved her family and her neighbors and they could depend on her. She had her home church and regular place in it, thus saying to her pastor and God, I am an armor bearer; you can depend on me. They knew they could. How often do we remember her testimony, her unwavering trust in her Savior, her faith in prayer and asking the prayers of the Church for her love.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union knew they could depend on her to solicit, to give and stand firm for its beautiful teachings, a "living epistle read of all men" to abolish these legions of vice and lift up the standard of purity of every land.

She was a daughter of Hiram and and Ellen Swaoby, born July 9, 1853, was 60 years, 8 months and 5 days old.

She was united in marriage to Thomas J. Wyatt, October 8, 1877. To this union were born five sons, three of whom have preceded her to the Heavenly home. They were married at Portfmouth, moved to Hillsboro in 1888. She was of German descent, her parents emigrating to America in 1840. She gave her heart to God in early childhood, the best years of her life were devoted to her Master.

A. J Davis, who gave his age as 57 years, and Mrs. Libbie Milholland, 56, both of Greenfield, were issued a marriage license on Wednesday in Covington, Ky.

J. W. Chaney, formerly of this city, died at his home in New Vienna on Wednesday of last week. The funeral occurred on Friday and interment made in the Wilmington cemetery.

Some loved one to endless rest,
And the heart though filled with anguish
Can but cry, "He knoweth best."

Every year some hand has finished
All the work for others here,
And we miss a voice, whose accents
Fell like music on our ear.

And the eyes that smiled so sweetly,
Answering back each look of love,
Now are gazing on the glories
Of the beauteous realms above.

But a year, not distant, cometh,
When we tread the vast unknown,
We shall find our ransomed dear ones
Seated round the great white throne.

Obituary.

Sirtha A., daughter of James and Jane Hart, was born August 16, 1855, and was married to John T. Chaney January 30, 1873, and died March 27, 1914,—aged 59 years, 6 months and 11 days.

The subject of this brief sketch, sister Sirtha, we have known all her life, in childhood, in her happy care free school days, as a wife and mother, a neighbor and friend. Her kindness, her faithfulness, in all the different places in life she has filled, and who knew her but to respect and love her? As a daughter she was faithful, as a wife loving and true, a devoted mother, ever interested in the welfare of her children and grand-children, who always found in her a safe refuge when sorrow or trouble came to them, and what a precious legacy is left to them of this noble christian mother, a legacy more precious than silver or gold. The memory of this will abide with them forever for next to the love of Christ is the unselfish love of a faithful mother. At the death of a daughter-in-law a few years ago, the motherless grand-children came into her home and with a warm, loving heart she gave them the same care and love she had given her own children and in this way they scarcely realized the loss they had sustained in the death of their own mother.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my little ones ye have done it unto me."—These words of our Savior seem very appropriate in her case. Her home was ever open to neighbors and friends and possibly no one in her neighborhood will be more missed than she will be.

A number of years ago she united with the Christian Union Church at Allensburg and during her last illness which was filled with much suffering and pain she realized her time had come and she must leave those so dear to her; the husband, who will be so lonely in old age; the son, the daughters and the grand-children. But he who had said, "I will never leave nor forsake thee" had called her and she must go and wanted her loved ones to so live to be ready to meet and greet her when they shall answer the summons which comes to all.

Two daughters, Mrs. Daisy Chaney and Mrs. Bessie Kesler, and son, Bert, an aged husband and five grand-children are left to miss and sorrow for this loved wife and mother who has left them, and to-day as we look for the last time on the face so dear to all may we as family, neighbors and friends so live that we may be ready to answer the summons gladly which comes to all—For link by link the chain of life is broken never to be reunited till we reach the eternal summer land of God.

Obituary.

Elizabeth Ambrose Rizer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ambrose, was born May 1st, 1840, near Hillsboro, Ohio, and died April 22nd, 1914, at her home in the same town, aged 73 years, 11 months and 23 days.

Mrs. Rizer came from sturdy pioneer stock, her childhood home being hewn out of virgin forest. She, with five sisters and one brother, were tutored in a home noted for its godliness and exemplary in its piety. Two sisters, Mrs. Kate Bennett and Mrs. M. J. Rizer, and one brother, Henry Ambrose, survive.

In the atmosphere of such a home she grew to girl and young womanhood and simultaneously into the neighboring United Brethren Church. Since her young life was first dedicated to Christ and the church, her activities and best energies have been poured unselfishly upon the altar of service.

Just fifty years ago the eleventh of this month she was united in wedlock to Michael Rizer. A home of which Christ was the recognized head was established and blessed with three children, Cora, George and Earl, the latter of whom survives. She was also mother to a step-son, Joseph M. Her departure is mourned by a husband, a son, a number of relatives and a host of friends; in fact her every acquaintance can be listed a friend.

Hers was a life of devotion to home and service in the church. An untiring worker in the Ladies' Aid, of which she was ever an official, a donor of labor and means to the needy; she busied herself for the Master whose reward she now enjoys. Her home was ever a shelter for the ministry, and her table, their privilege. Her promotion leaves only inspiring and pleasant memories. This life was as the opening of the alabaster box, a sweet exhalation which will remain inviolable in the hearts of all who were blessed with her touch.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with deepest appreciation that we desire to publicly acknowledge the many kindnesses and proffers of sympathy extended to our family in its recent bereavement. Only those who have experienced similar losses can appreciate the value of thoughtful friends in such an hour. Our hearts were cheered by your kindness.—M. Rizer and family.

Obituary.

James Henry, son of Josiah and Deborah Williams was born April 19, 1861, died April 9, 1914, aged 52 years, 11 months and 20 days.

On the 15th day of August, 1886, he was united in marriage to Mary Lou Weaver, daughter of the late S. A. Weaver, of Belfast, Ohio, and to this union were born five children, one daughter, Lucille, having preceded him to that better land.

He obeyed the gospel and united with the Church of Christ, at Mt. Zion, under the pastorate of the now aged F. P. Sayre, of Wilmington, in January, 1884, and died a firm believer in the teachings of the meek and lowly Jesus.

For the past eighteen months his health has been failing and on Sunday, April 5, he was stricken down with pneumonia and suffered until Thursday evening when he fell asleep.

His death was a shock to his family and friends, and although we know he is gone yet it is hard to believe that father is no more. Kind, noble, generous father, our friend and defender always, our confidant, the one to whom we could always go with our petitions and find a listening ear is no more.

You are gone, but not forgotten—your memory shall always be cherished and when dark clouds of adversity come we know that father's spirit will be near us, and while he can not speak to us, be near to guide our footsteps and lead us to a better life.

He conversed with his family and friends before his last sickness and told them he was not afraid to die; that he had tried to set a good example before them and for them to try to follow it, avoiding his mistakes. He said he had made mistakes, but not purposely, and that he had a faithful friend who would forgive him of all wrongs he had committed and that he was ready to go to meet Him.

He leaves a loving wife, four children, Nellie Weaver, James Edgar, Addison and Margaret, an aged father and mother, two sisters and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

May we live such lives that we all, when done with time, with him may hear that welcome plaudit "Well done thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things. I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Callie Milner who died at the home of her sister at Wilmington were held at the Friends Church at Hardin's Creek Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services conducted by Rev. Purdy, of Wilmington, assisted by Rev. Frank Milner and sister, Mrs. Maude Hoskins. Interment made at Bridges cemetery.

Death of Mrs. C. C. Walker.

Mrs. C. C. Walker, who had been in ill health for several months, died at her home on North High street last Friday afternoon, the immediate cause of her death being due to a stroke of paralysis. She was aged about 57 years and is survived by her husband and five children, Mrs. Will. Rodes, Ernest, Mrs. John Mullin, Herschel and Lynn. Funeral services were held on Monday morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by Dr. W. H. Shields, of the Presbyterian Church, after which the remains were interred in the Hillsboro cemetery.

Death of Ex-Marshal Willett.

Reed Willett, formerly of this city died at his home in Greenfield last Monday morning at the advanced age of 87 years, death being due to the infirmities of old age. Mr. Willett at one time was the marshal of Hillsboro and for many years served on the police force. The body was brought to Hillsboro on Wednesday morning. Funeral services, conducted by Dr. E. R. Slutz, were held at the M. E. Church after which interment was made in the cemetry here.

Guy Hopkins died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hopkins, near Berryville, last Sunday afternoon from an attack of appendicitis, aged 17 years. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning and interment made in Union Chapel cemetery.

In an interview with Mrs. W. R. Smith, the Gazette was able to get a number of interesting facts concerning the old Clifton House which was recently torn down, as well as information about its first owner:

The old Woodrow House, at the corner of High and Beech streets, torn down to prepare the site for the new armory, was built about the year 1815. The house was on in-lot No. 44. The records in the Recorder's office of Highland county show that the first deed for this lot was made to Joshua Woodrow, Sr., which was executed by George Richards, director, who was the agent who made all the deeds conveying titles to the original purchasers of the town lots in Hillsboro. This deed bears the date of Jan. 6th, 1809, and the consideration as expressed was $40 "lawful money of the United States." The first sale of town lots was made in 1808, just after the town was laid out.

In the spring of 1809 Mr. Woodrow set out with his family, which consisted of his wife and three small children, from his home in Culpepper county, Va., for his new home in the wilds of Ohio, traveling the entire distance in old-fashioned wagons, and upon his arrival here immediately began the erection of a substantial log house on his lot, in a corner room of which he opened a store for the sale of general merchandise. Further on down Beech street he built another log house which he used as a hatter's shop. Twice each year Mr. Woodrow rode to Philadelphia on horseback where he purchased his goods. It took one month for him to complete each trip. The merchandise he purchased was sent down the Ohio river by boat to Ripley and then hauled to his store in this village in wagons.

Being very successful in business, he having an immense trade with the Quakers from the settlements at Leesburg, Highland and Samantha, he erected a substantial brick building a few years later in a part of which was his store while the remainder was occupied as a dwelling. The family resided here for many years. Above the store room was a large drawing room corresponding in size with the room below, which witnessed many gay scenes in the life of the family, as well as some sad ones. In this drawing room many marriages took place. In this connection it may be said that the room saw marriages in four generations of the Woodrow family. Several children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Woodrow (Anne Trimble) one of whom is Mrs. James W. Smith, of Hillsboro, who is now 89 years of age and the oldest living native resident of this city.

For many years the old building, after some additions had been made to it, was used as a tavern and later a hotel, but this was not until after it had passed out of the hands of the Woodrows. It was first known as the Woodrow House, later the name being changed to the Clifton House, being known by the latter title at the time it was razed to make room for the armory and thus has disappeared one of the oldest landmarks of the city which finally was compelled to submit to the march of progress.

Death of C. P. Landess.

C. P. Landess died at his home in the west end of town on Wednesday of last week, aged about 73 years. Mr. Landess had been in poor health for several months. He leaves a wife and three children, Mrs. Thomas Pence, of Pricetown, and Miss Effie and Lawrence L. Landess, of this city. Funeral services were held on Friday, after which the remains were taken to the Chapman cemetery at Danville for burial.

Little Christine Cooper, the eight year-old grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, who reside on Elm street, was the victim of one of the most distressing and saddest accidents that ever occured in this community.

While engaged last Saturday afternoon in playing "hide and seek" with two young companions, little sons of Mrs. Lillie Fenner, she was accidently shot with a rifle which one of the boys found in an out building in the rear of the residence of Ova Hopkins. It was stated that Mr. Hopkins had been using the weapon for the purpose of killing rats and had left it standing loaded in a convenient place. The rifle was loaded with a 22 long cartridge, and the ball took effect in the girl's forehead, just above the eyes, and penetrated the skull, lodging in the brain.

Whether the little fellow pointed the gun at her, not thinking it was loaded, or whether it was discharged in some other manner is not known. Both boys are very young, one being six years of age and the other four, and therefore they have been unable to give any intelligent information about the circumstances surrounding the tragedy.

The unfortunate little victim was rendered unconscious from which she never rallied, death coming to relieve her sufferings the same night about 10 o'clock. The families connected with the sad affair are heartbroken and have the sympathy of the entire community in their terrible bereavement.

Funeral services were held at the residence last Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. A. A. Nellis, pastor of the Baptist Church, after which the remains were taken to New Market and laid to rest.

Word was received here recently of the death of Mrs. Mary Gage Shaffer, who died of pneumonia at her home at West Elkton. Mrs. Shaffer formerly lived here and has many friends who were saddened to hear of her death. Interment took place near her home at West Elkton.

Dearest brother thou hast left us,

Obituary.

Margine Lucille, daughter of William and Cora Gillespie, was born August 30, 1913, departed this life February 7, 1914, aged 5 months and 7 days. Besides the loving parents, four brothers and three sisters are left to mourn her loss.

She was here to brighten the home for only a short time but her presence will be missed in the home. Margine Lucille has been called by the Good Shepherd to be one of the lambs of his flock to dwell with Him forever.

Despondent over ill health, Albert Gossett, a young farmer aged 32 years, and who resided about three miles west of Lynchburg, took his own life last Wednesday morning.

Arising as usual, at four o'clock, he went to the barn to feed the stock and it is thought he took his shotgun with him as he usually kept the weapon at the house. His wife arose about the same time and began to prepare breakfast. When this was finished she called to her husband that breakfast was ready. Repeating the call several times and getting no answer, Mrs. Gossett started to the barn to see what was detaining him and was horrified to find his dead body near the barn yard of their home.

In committing the rash act Mr. Gossett had used his shotgun, the contents of which struck him in the stomach and chest. He no doubt had planned the suicide, as when found his shoe and sock on the right foot had been removed, thus indicating that he pulled the trigger of the gun with his toes.

The only reason advanced for his self destruction is that he was despondent over ill health. When quite young he had fallen out of a barn door on which he had been swinging and hurt his back, being obliged for some time to wear a plaster cast and later a steel jacket. However, he apparently recovered from his injuries and in later years was not only robust, but of a jolly disposition and one of the last persons who would be considered to take his own life. Last summer his old trouble came back on him and it is thought this preyed on his mind and led him to end it all by the suicide route. He leaves a wife and a child about ten months old.

It is alleged that Mr. Gossett had a brother who committed suicide several years ago.

Funeral services were held at Pricetown yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. B. F. Smith, pastor of the Christian Church of this city, and interment made in the cemetery at that village.

Ernest Woodmansee, a young farmer aged about 30 years, who resides near Highland, was struck by a B. & O. train near that village last Thursday night and instantly killed, his head being completely severed from his body.

The accident, which was not known to the crew of the train that killed Woodmansee, is thought to have occurred about midnight as he had been in Hillsboro that day and started home some time in the afternoon, and probably too late to have met death by an earlier train. While in Hillsboro he called on one of the local physicians and secured some medicine, apparently suffering from insomnia.

Just how Woodmansee met his death will never be known as there were no witnesses to the tragedy and his body was not discovered until the next morning when it was found by the crew of an early morning train. The body was lying between the tracks and the head which had been severed from the body had rolled some few feet away.

On Friday an inquest was held by Coroner J. D. Bobbitt, of Lynchburg, but no testimony throwing any light on the accident was given. However, the mother of Woodmansee testified that he had been having domestic troubles and worried a great deal. From the information that he could gather the coroner rendered the following verdict: "After having heard the evidence, examined the body, and considered the circumstances, I do find that the deceased came to his death by being run over by a train Probably suicide."

Mr. Woodmansee is survived by a wife and one child. He was a prominent young farmer and the finding of his mangled body on Friday morning greatly shocked and excited the people of Highland and vicinity.

Funeral services were held in the M. E Church in Highland on Sunday, conducted by Rev. Zier after which interment was made in the cemetery in that village.

Joseph Mather, at one time a resident of this city, died at Joliet, Ill., on May 9. He was an uncle of J. M. and Harvey Scarborough and will be remembered by some of our older citizens.

In the home we will miss thee,
We will feel thy absence there;
And oh, what sorrows pierce our heart
To see thy vacant chair.

The home is sad without thee,
How desolate each heart;
The stroke of death that snatched thee hence
Hath filled our hearts with woe.

Again we hope to meet thee
When life's short journey is o'er,
Ah, yes we hope to meet thee then
On heaven's eternal shore.

Obituary.

There is a reaper whose name is Death,
And with his sickle keen
He reaps the bearded grain at a breath,
And the flowers that grow between.

In this beautiful June tide, when all nature is proclaiming with loud voice the announcement of the unfolding and springing forth of freshness and newness of life, while the earth is just awakening from a seeming stupor and beginning to put on a much greener verdure, while the birds sing most sweetly and while everything about us seems indicative of vigor and life, we are caused to pause and note the truth that "In the midst of life we are in death."

Ivy Stultz, daughter of Calvin and Anne Stultz was born April 28, 1883 and died June 23, 1914, aged 31 years 1 month and 22 days. She was the oldest of a family of five children, three sons and two daughters.

January 6, 1903, she was united in marriage to Chas. Driskell. Rich and sacred will be the memories of this hand-to-hand and heart-to-heart journey through life, to the bereft companion, as he journeys on, sad and lonely.

During the ministry of Rev. Jackson she united with the Christian Church at Harwood, at the age of 16 years, and had ever been a true and faithful Christian.

She leaves to mourn their loss husband, father and mother, one sister and three brothers, besides a host of relatives and friends.

To us the sun has gone down, while it is yet at the noontide, yet her life was full and complete because of her service. Ivy's hands are quiet now for the first time in years, and the tired one has entered into rest, nevermore to labor for. They rest from their labors and this rest shall be glorious. She was patient in all her suffering which was intense. She was hopeful of recovery until the last when she calmly slept her life away in the arms of her blessed Master.

Dear friends let us sorrow not as those without hope, but let us strive to meet her in that home above.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Hoggart at the Christian Church at Harwood after which the remains were laid to rest in the Harwood cemetery.

ZETTE, JULY 24, 1914.

Death of Mrs. J. T. Kibler.

Mrs. J. T. Kibler was born February 20, 1830; died July 4, 1914. She was the last of the old settlers from Highland, who one by one have been taken from the community since the Kiblers settled here, 43 years ago. She was one of those pioneers whom it is a delight to honor; a woman who undoubtedly made the world happier, brighter and better for her having lived in it.

Her maiden name was Sarah A. Ruble. She was born in Highland county, Ohio, whence came so many of Pike county's early settlers. She was the third in a family of ten children. Left an orphan at sixteen, a family of younger children became her charge. She united with the church in 1850.

On February 23, 1851, she married Joseph T. Kibler, who was also a native of Highland county. Shortly thereafter the couple left their native town of Hillsboro and set out on the long and tedious journey to this western country, which was little more than a wilderness. Arriving here they first set up their household altars on the farm where Wm. Schemel now lives. Later they moved to Time where Mr. Kibler ran a little store.

The tasks that confronted the young bride when she first came to this pioneer land were such as most girls of to-day would shrink from. The couple, however, went bravely to work—Mr. Kibler teaching school in the winter and farming in the summer, while the girl wife strove hard to make a little home in the wilderness. And her home, humble as it was, was always hospitable. It was the home of the pioneer preacher, who always found a welcome there. It was the home of any and all who were in need. Mrs. Kibler was a willing worker. No task was great enough to make her hesitate. Many a night vigil she has kept by the side of sick friends. Many an hour she has spent with her needle in labors of love.

In early days Mrs. Kibler was known as the finest spinner in the land. She spun for all kinds of cloth. Even in her last years she did much fine drawn work, in muslins, on pillowslips, sheets, etc., and this work is truly remarkable for its accuracy. Many bits of her handicraft are kept by her daughters, relatives and friends as priceless keepsakes.

Mrs. Kibler also was known as the finest tailoress of her time. Her suits were the envy of everybody. At the Old Settlers' meeting, five years ago, was exhibited a pair of white linen trousers made by Mrs. Kibler for Mr. Johnston, of Time, and so regular and perfect was the stitching that it occasioned much comment. For her son, Newton, when he was attending high school in Pittsfield, she made a dress coat that was the envy of all the boys. Yet Mrs. Kibler was a very modest woman and always shrank from praise. An instance of her devotion is recalled by her daughters. When Mr. Kibler was keeping store at Time he came home late one evening with the announcement that he must go to St. Louis on the following morning. He remarked that he wished he had a pair of pants, made out of a certain piece of goods, to wear. Next morning when Mr. Kibler got up the pants were ready for him, pressed and ready to put on. The faithful wife had cut and made them during the night.

Her needlework in her last years is remarkable for its quantity and quality. Her fingers were seldom idle. Yet she never took a lesson in any of these useful crafts. All was learned in the hard school of experience.

Mrs. Kibler was the mother of seven children. Five are living. They are: Newton W. and Ben F., of Visalia, California; Kathie, wife of E. E. Unsell, of Frankford, Mo.; Rebecca, wife of George Peters, of Pittsfield, and Joseph, who is at home. A brother, Joseph Ruble, has made his home with the Kiblers for several years. One brother lives in Minnesota and another in Kansas.

Mr. Kibler died March 11, 1911. The couple had celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary a few weeks before. Since her husband's death, Mrs. Kibler had been very feeble.

Funeral services were held from the home Monday morning at ten o'clock. Rev. D. N. Wetzel officiating, and interment was in Oakwood.—Pike County Republican, Pittsfield, Ill.

A deplorable accident occurred at the Burns' farm, about three miles below Sinking Spring, last Friday in which T. A. Hockman, of Fort Hill, who was engaged in hauling railroad ties, lost his life.

Mr. Hockman and two of his sons had gone to the Burns' farm for the ties. Two wagons were used, Mr. Hockman driving one of the teams and one of the boys the other. The wagons were loaded and the older son had started with his load some time before his father and the younger son were ready. As the latter were driving from the mill yard, the right front wheel went into a rut at the side of the road giving the wagon a sudden lurch which threw Mr. Hockman from the wagon, the fall so injuring his spine as to cause paralysis from which he died about 8 o'clock the next morning without having regained conciousness.

The ten year-old son of the unfortunate victim was the only person near at the time of the accident and for four hours he sat with his father's head in his lap. The boy's cries brought no help and he was almost distracted, but believed and hoped that with the passing of every moment his father might recover sufficiently to help himself.

Becoming alarmed at the delay of his father and younger brother, the elder boy who had gone on ahead, retraced the route and was the first person to go to their aid. A physician was summoned, as was other aid, but to no avail and death came to relieve him of his injuries as stated above.

Mr. Hockman, who was aged about 60 years, is survived by a wife and ten children, to whom the shock was terrible and heart-rending, and they have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Funeral services were held on Monday, conducted by Rev. McKibben, of Washington C. H., after which the body was taken to Allensburg for burial.

A couple of weeks ago Mr. Weller fell from a cherry tree and sustained a fractured skull. He was rendered unconscious by the fall and never recovered, lying in a comatose condition until his death. Mr. Weller is survived by a wife and three children. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. C. M. Vanpelt, of Cincinnati, were held on Monday and interment made at Greenfield.

Lufkin, in Newton, Iowa, last Thursday, after a few days illness, at the age of 88 years. Several weeks ago, in company with his daughter, Miss Virginia, he left for an extended stay with relatives in the west, but death claimed him before his visit ended.

Death of Mrs. Autie Gall.

The community of Belfast was greatly shocked by the sudden death of Mrs. Autie Gall, which occurred last Friday morning at half past one o'clock at the home of her father, Hampton Gall.

Mary Evelyn Gall, daughter of William and Carolyn Byrd, was born April 7, 1886, and died July 24, 1914, aged 28 years, 3 months and 16 days. She was married to Autie Gall August 30, 1907. She united with the Methodist Episcopal Church when about twelve years of age during the pastorate of Rev. B. F. Oswald at Sinking Spring and continued a member of that church until she passed to her Heavenly rest.

To know her was to love her; to all who knew her and those of her own home she was a sweet and lovable spirit.

She leaves to mourn her departure a husband, two children, mother, sister and brother, father and mother-in-law and a host of friends who are sad today because she has fallen asleep. She has gone to that beautiful city where there is no night and tears never fall.

Memoir.

In loving memory of our dearly beloved wife and mother, Sarah Jane Fender, who died August 4, 1911.

Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er,
On the border land we left her,
Soon to meet to part no more.

When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care,
We shall find our missing mother
In our Father's mansion fair.

'Neath our eyes she faded slowly,
Growing day by day more frail,
Bearing sweetly all her suffering
Without murmur, moan or wail.

Three years have gone we know full well
The heart aches but words can never tell,
But you are at rest and your soul is free,
Where you will wait for us in eternity.

God has given, God has taken,
All of us must bear the pain;
But He promised that in heaven
Some day we shall meet again.

You are sleeping, dearest mother,
Where the ivy 'round you creeps,
And we know that you are happy
In your everlasting sleep.

Sadly missed by husband and children.

Memoir.

The words flashed over the wires Thursday, July 30, "Father is gone." Oh, what a world of sorrow they brought, for we know another bright light has gone out, another home made sad and lonely and a place made vacant. A white, pure life, like the pages of a beautiful, open open book, known and read by all, on whose pages no blot has ever been made, when at the noon hour of July 30, 1914, at the home of a beloved cousin, Jennie Russell Lufkin, of Newton, Iowa, and surrounded by many relatives, he answered the summons no ear but his could hear and the anchor which had been grounded so firmly for almost 88 years was lifted, and the boatman came silently and swiftly bearing the spirit of our beloved father, Egbert Garnett Boatright, o'er the silent river to the home of the soul to meet the many loved ones gone before and the tired, worn-out body found rest and the spirit returned to the God who gave it.

Mr. Boatright was a man of more than ordinaty intelligence, well-educated, and all through his long life his standard has been high for the advancement of every good cause and as he was widely known his influence for good can never be estimated. All his acts in life were pure and in all the long years I have known him I never heard him utter a low or profane word. What a record he has left us! In early manhood he was converted and joined the Methodist Church and for years was an active worker in the Sunday School and was always a cheerful giver. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge for many years, a devoted husband and father, a true friend and neighbor, and to sum it all up—a high-toned Christian gentleman.

This summer he expressed a great desire to visit his sons and other relatives in western Iowa. How he did enjoy this his last visit with relatives and old friends. As he neared the close of this delightful visit and with his face turned homeward where many awaited him he lingered at Newton, Iowa, to visit so many old time friends and without scarcely a moment's notice his feeble strength failed and after only a few days illness he left us.

Mr. Boatright was a Virginian, born of sturdy pioneer stock, well born and well raised, which is a precious legacy to anyone. He came of a family of eight children, five sons and three daughters, but all are gone except Mrs. Roxey Kirkhart, who has been such a comfort to him since his wife left him, and one brother, Milton, of Kansas.

In public life he was prominent and for years he was postmaster and railroad agent at Russell and by his honesty and integrity many came to him in trouble knowing they could always trust him.

The great sorrow of his life came in September, 1908, when his wife left him and another shadow came when his first-born, Josephine Strange, died so suddenly, but all this he bore so patiently, without a murmur, only waiting for the time to come when he too would go, but in all this his life was happy, he still had his old home, his two daughters were his constant companions and as the shadows lengthened and the golden rays of the setting sun shone on his pathway, he spent many happy hours under the shade of the grand old trees on the lawn with his favorite books and papers and with the frequent calls of his friends his was surely a calm, happy, sweet old age.

Two daughters, Virginia and Mary, and two sons, George and Homer, are left of this family, while the wife and two daughters, Josephine and Martha Eliza, awaited his coming home. ***

The dead body of Miss Susan Clouser, aged about 80 years, was found in the cellar of her home on the Carey town pike, near Auburn Chapel, last Saturday. There were no witnesses to the tragedy, but she had evidently started down the steps for some article in the cellar when she lost her balance and fell, breaking her neck.

Just how long the body had been lying there is not known, but it is believed the accident occurred Saturday morning, as there were evidences of some work she had been doing earlier in the day.

For many years Miss Clouser and sister resided together in the house where the accident happened. About eight years ago the sister died since which time the aged lady had lived alone, and for that reason her death might not have been discovered for days, had it not been that some children of the neighborhood went to visit her and not getting any response to their calls, made a search of the house and were horrified to find the body in the cellar, and soon spread the alarm to the neighbors, who summoned a physician, but life had been extinct for several hours.

Funeral services were held at Auburn Chapel Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Wilson, after which the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery there.

Samuel D. Meyers was struck and instantly killed by a train on the Baltimore & Ohio branch between this city and Blanchester last Friday evening, the accident occurring at Klocks Crossing between Lynchburg and Westboro.

The engine crew of train No. 243 stated that as the train approached the crossing at Klocks, the man was seen sitting on the wooden platform with his head upon his hands. The whistle was blown repeatedly, but he did not arise, as the enginemen expected he would, and before they could stop the train, it had crushed him to death.

Meyers was forty-seven years old, so relatives from Pike county said. He had been employed at the logging camp, a short distance west of the point where he met his death, and for a long time had lived alone. For a year or more the camp has been almost deserted, though a few years ago when the lumber company was engaged in clearing off the large tract of timber on the Scott land, it was a busy place and many families made their homes there. The place now consists of a few improvised houses, in one of which Meyers lived alone. How he came to be where he was, what his intention was, whether he was asleep or ill, nobody seems to know.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of A. L. Hannah, in Blanchester, and prepared for burial. When his relatives arrived Monday, preparations were made for the funeral, which was held that afternoon, and the body buried at Westboro.

Mr. Klise was born in Columbus and early in life began acquiring an education. Soon after his marriage he removed to this city where he had since resided.

About the time of his marriage Mr. Klise was ordained a minister in the Christian Union Church. Endowed with unusual talent, he was a preacher of ability, an able and eloquent orator and an interesting writer. His services as a lecturer were continually sought and by reason of his oratorical ability he was widely known all over this section of the country. Besides his ministerial duties and engagements on the lecture platform, Mr. Klise served several terms as Justice of the Peace for Liberty township, filling the position with much credit. He was of a quiet, unassuming disposition, although his intellectual abilities were recognized by everyone. He is survived by five children, two sons and three daughters. Funeral services were held at the home last Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Johnson, pastor of the C. U. Church at Bethel, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Hillsboro cemetery.

Lewis D. Strain, who had been ill for a long time with an attack of Bright's disease, died at his home on Glenn street last Saturday morning, aged 75 years. Levi Freeze died at his home near Sinking Spring Friday morning, Sept. 4, from an attack of dropsy. He was aged about 66 years and is survived by a wife and six children. Funeral services were held on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Van B. Wright, after which interment was made in the Ridge Church cemetery.

C. S. Powell, better known as "Big Dick," was found dead in bed at his home in Greenfield last Friday morning by his wife who had been absent during the night visiting a relative who was ill. Finding the doors locked when she arrived at home Mrs. Powell summoned assistance and upon going through the house was startled to find her husband dead. Mr. Powell had just returned to Greenfield from Columbus where he had been living for some time. His death was due to heart failure. Funeral services were held last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and interment made in the Greenfield cemetery.

In an article last week concerning the death of the late Rev. J. W. Klise, of this city, the Waverly Watchman says in part:

"He was a most learned man and possessed a logic on an analysis met with in the pulpit but rarely. As a debater upon theological questions he had no superior and his adversary found him ever worthy of his steel.

"Brilliant, gracious and generous, a kindly soul passed from this busy vineyard to the bosom of his Father and his God when the spark of life flickered out and the soul of Rev. John W. Klise passed from Time into Eternity.

"Rev. John W. Klise was the last survivor of that little band of Christians, who met in Deshler's Hall in 1864, among whom was a Baptist, a Presbyterian and a Methodist minister, and organized the Christian Union as a protest against the profane and partisan political preaching of the times.

"Rev. Hiram Runyan informs us that steps were set on foot, immediately after the burial, to start a subscription for the purpose of erecting a monument at the grave of this father of and pioneer in Christian Union."

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Golden wedding bells for Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Colvin occurred on Sunday, Sept. 20, and was celebrated on Saturday evening, at their quiet home where the Grand Army Post with the Women's Relief Corps gave them a little surprise-party. In a good old-fashioned way, thirty-two in number clasped hands with these people who had traveled through life these fifty years with many a sorrow, many a tear, and like the rest of us were still looking for "the silver lining."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown and their little daughter, Margaret Ann, together with Charles Colvin, wife and daughter, Rose Marie, of Vincennes, Ind., were here.

There were many beautiful flowers, and splendid refreshments were served. At last the parting time came and a hearty wish for many years to follow them farther on the journey of life.—M. U.

Committed Suicide.

Dr. Harry Jenkins, a prominent young physician of Washington C. H. committed suicide last Friday evening by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid. The affair is doubly sad as he was only married two weeks ago to Miss Freda S. Black, at Sandusky. Miss Marie McMullen, of this city who was a classmate of Mrs. Jenkins at Delaware, attended the wedding which was a brilliant society event. It is believed that an injury Dr. Black received many years ago is responsible for the rash act. Miss McMullen attended the funeral at Washington C. H. on Tuesday.

Death of Emanuel Young.

Emanuel Young, one of the oldest, if not the oldest, residents of this city, died at the home of his son-in-law, Chas. Wellbrook, on Wednesday night at 10 o'clock. One of the prettiest marriage ceremonies occurring in Hillsboro during the past year was that solemnized at the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening when Miss Margaret Barrere became the bride of Mr. Fred H. Lafferty.

Preceding the arrival of the bridal party Miss Nina Glenn played several beautiful selections on the pipe organ among them being "Violets," by Wright; "I Love You Truly," by Bond; and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

A few minutes before five o'clock, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride, handsomely gowned in a becoming blue traveling suit entered from the memorial room, on the arm of her uncle, Granville Barrere, and proceeded to the altar, where she was met by the bridegroom and the officiating minister, Dr. W. H. Shields, and where the impressive ring ceremony was performed.

For the occasion the altar had been prettily decorated with scarlet and white dahlias which made a charming background for the happy event.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty left with Mr. and Mrs. Will. Huggins in the latter's automobile for Washington C. H. from which point they left for a short bridal trip. They expect to return to Hillsboro the first of next week and will be at home to their friends after November 15 in the handsome new home on West Walnut street which the groom had erected last summer.

Memoir.

In memory of my devoted friend, Stacie West Shaffer, who died Sept. 8th, 1911, in his 28th year.

So I can not say and will not say,
That he is dead—he is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since he lingers there.
And you, oh you, who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and the glad return,
Think of him faring on as dear
In the love of there as the love of here.
Mild and gentle as he was brave
When the sweetest love of his lips he gave
To the simple things where the violets grew
Blue as the eyes they likened to
The touches of his hand have strayed
As reverently as his lips have pray'd;
Think of him still as the same, I say,
He is not dead—he is just away.

Death of Gen. Adna R. Chaffee.

Lieut-General Adna R. Chaffee, who since his retirement from the army in 1906 had been a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., died in that city last Sunday after an illness of two weeks' duration. General Chaffee was 72 years old and a native or Orwell, Ohio. He was a veteran of the Civil War, participated in many Indian wars along the frontier, when he was associated with Generals Miles and Lawton; a veteran of the Spanish-American war and commander of the China relief expedition during the Boxer rebellion in 1900.

Dr. V. B. McConnaughey, who with his wife had been visiting relatives in the west, recently wrote to his brother, Grant, the following interesting letter:

BENTONVILLE, ARK., Oct. 20, 1914.
Grant McConnaughey,

Dear Brother:—We arrived at Bentonville, Arkansas, on the evening of Oct. 20, after having made the journey from St. Louis over the Frisco line. After leaving Springfield, Mo., our route lay on the crest of the Ozark Mountains, (those mountains we used to read about when mother thought we were busy at our school books.) I thought of the two German sportsmen, Erskine and Greasteakes, and their faithful dogs, Sport and Beargrease; then about poor Erskine, who, with his faithful dog, Sport, as well as the bear, lying within a few feet of each other as silent evidences of the courage and "gameness" that each possessed, and the sadness that fell upon man and dog when each saw the fate that befell their respective companions of the mountain wilderness.

Time, here, as well as most everywhere else "beyond the Mississippi," hath wrought many changes. The forests have been cleared and in their place thousands of acres are planted in orchards—mostly apple orchards. The output this year from this county alone of apples will be eleven hundred and fifty thousand barrels. This would mean if the barrels were arranged side by side they would make a continuous row from Hillsboro to a point beyond Chicago, Ill. It is not uncommon to see an orchard with 50 acres and there are several in this county of more than 100 acres and one farm, the famous Gipple farm, of two hundred acres in apple orchard. The returns for the apple crop of Benton county will be about one and one-half million dollars. This does not include the returns from hundreds of acres of peach and cherry orchards, which like the apple is almost a never-failing crop in this section.

Among the landmarks that are being retained in this portion of the Ozark Mountains are the "Ozark Trails," which are being rapidly put in proper condition for automobile travel. This improved condition of the "Ozark Trails" is largely due to the efforts and leadership of W. H. Harvey, whose residence for more than a decade has been at Monte-Ne, a noted summer resort made famous by the building of two long structures. One, the first approached, is more than three hundred feet in length, built entirely of hewn logs overlaid with cement blocks on the outside, but all inside both first and second floors, the rooms are arranged into suites, each suite having a colonial fireplace and rustic furniture and effects. This is called the "Oklahoma" row and accomodates one hundred to three hundred people.

The next building, situated about six hundred feet distant and parallel with the "Oklahoma" building, is the Texas building, built very much after the same plan as the former except the original "log-hut" effect is maintained throughout this structure both inside and out. These buildings are financed and were designed by Mr. Harvey, who may be described as about the size and general appearance of Attorney Frank Collins, and immediately he holds your hand in that warm, lingering grasp you feel the welcome and hospitality of the host of Monte-Ne, which is truly southern in in its type.

Not until Monday the 26th did we attempt to visit in the surrounding country. Our first was to Siloam Springs, a town of about three thousand inhabitants, located in the southwest corner of Benton county and near the Oklahoma line. While here we crossed into Oklahoma for a considerale drive, "stuck in the mud" and were pulled out by a half breed. Siloam has spent several thousand dollars in making it an ideal town, not the least of which improvements is a chautauqua amphitheatre, fireproof, built of native white limestone and covered by a steel supporting roof. We were here entertained by Dr. Smiley.

Tuesday the 26th the long, long, looked-for object of my vacation wa met when Uncle John Gross, a vetera hunter of the Ozarks, took me to th "Real Woods." In the hunting part were Mr. Gross, the younger of th Lindsey brothers, myself and tw trained dogs. We left Bentonville a 7 a. m. and landed about the sam hour p. m., after having trampe about eighteen miles over the loos stoned forests of the southern part the county.

It is needless to say that eating ha been of the game variety since th hunt and the only inconvenience tha I experienced was that my knees fel like two rival gout factories for abou twenty-four hours.

Wednesday we motored to Sulphu Springs, a famous watering place o the Kansas City road, where ma be found the finest hotel accomoda tions for 2,000 guests. The Kansa City road runs weekly excursions t this point during the open season. I is also easily reached from Dallas Texas, and Little Rock, Arkansas, a well as from the many smaller towns In a short while will connect Kansa City with Ft. Smith by one of th longest as well as finest public high ways there is in the United States.

Good roads and up-to-date fru raising have brought the price of far lands from a minimum of $10 and $2 per acre to an average of $50 for u improved to $200 for well-orcharde and improved farms.

Hoping this will suffice until I ca talk to you more about minor details

I am,
Your brother, VAN.

Obituary.

John W. Klise, son of Joseph Klise, was born in Columbus, O., November 23, 1837; died in Hillsboro, Ohio, September 12, 1914; aged 76 years, 9 months, 19 days.

His first wife was given him but for a little while. There was born one son, Charles, when the union was broken by the hand of death. He was again married Sept. 17, 1869, to Mildred Broadstone, to whom were born seven children. The hand of death again entered this home and took therefrom the wife and mother on May 21, 1900. From then until his death he lived with his children doing the work to which God and his circle alloted him.

In early life, he gave his heart to God and soon felt the divine call to the ministry of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and through all the years of his after life he was an earnest, able advocate and defender of his Christ and of His church. A profound thinker, a clear reasoner, loyal to his convictions of truth and right, he had few equals in his presentation of the cause of his espousal, whether it be by voice or pen. In early life he united with the M. E. Church, but in the incipiency of the Christian Union movement, he quickly recognized in it the highest conception of divine teaching and in 1864 entered into its advocacy and defense with all the zeal and capability of his being, never swerving from his adherence and loyalty thereto.

He was present in the first Convention that resulted in the organization of the Christian Union held in Deshler Hall at Columbus, O., and is the last survivor of the Convention. He has ever been held in high esteem by those with whom he associated, for his wonderful ability and never failing loyalty; and was universally loved by those in and out of the church wherever he went. He was given the highest positions of honor within the gift of his people and was looked upon as their ablest advocate.

He never knew the value of money or learned to love it for its own sake. With liberal hand he left it go for the pleasure and profit and helpfulness of himself and those around him as fast as it came to him. With a big heart, a deep mind, and a strong love, he knew not what it was to hoard for himself and others. His christianity was bigger than his church. It never knew any bounds or limitations of creed or class. He loved God and loved his fellow man, and was in every sense a servant of God and of His kind.

Early in his christian life he was ordained to the ministry, and through all the after years, gave honor to his calling and stood high among his fellows and before the world at large, because of his broad knowledge his depth of thought and his wonderful powers of eloquence and forceful advocacy.

He was one of the foremost men in the Christian Union ranks of Ohio. He was a member of the South Ohio Annual Council, but was known and honored throughout our entire borders. He died as he lived, true, faithful, loving, honored, loved and mourned. The funeral was conducted at the home in Hillsboro, Ohio, Sept. 4, 1914, by Rev. R. A. M. Johnson, assisted by Revs. H. Runyan, W. Wamsley and D. L. Vandament; and accompanied by hundreds of loving, sad-hearted friends and associates from the churches and towns miles and miles away, his body was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery just outside of Hillsboro, there to await his summons on the great day of the resurrection.

William Stabler Married.

William E. Stabler, son of Eugene Stabler of this city, was united in marriage recently to Miss Ida Zadow at Oakland, California, where the groom is in business and where they will reside.

RUSSELL

This neighborhood was terribly shocked Friday last when the news flew around that John Oldaker was dead, one of the best and most beloved citizens of this community. Mr. Oldaker had been out on the farm all morning, came in and ate a good dinner and was talking with a neighbor when he seemed to be sick and a physician was called, but before anything could be done he passed away apparently without any pain.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held Monday afternoon in the M. E. Church here conducted by a former pastor, Rev. Maddox, of Cincinnati, assisted by Rev. Aultman, of Vienna, and Rev. Spurrier, of Lynchburg. Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Judge Newby and wife, Mrs. Kate Bennett, Mrs. Harwood, Mrs. Joe Lemon, Dr. Hilton and wife, Ellen Hatcher, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Homer Dean and many of the G. A. R. members from Hillsboro, J. L. Strange, Jerry Kerr and Mr. Robinson, of Greenfield, Isma Troth, Mrs. Lizzie Montgomery, Mr. Burnett, and Mrs. Tom. Chaney, of Lynchburg, Mrs. Ella Stewart of New Market, Mrs. Carrie Hart, of Chillicothe, Virginia Boatright, of Berea, Ky., and Marie Jonte, of Columbus.

[illegible] Wedding.

County Surveyor-elect Charles F. Clarke and Miss Margaret Patton were united in marriage at noon on Wednesday, the ceremony being performed by Dr. W. H. Shields of the Presbyterian Church. Only the immediate members of the families of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony which took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Maddox, on North High street. It had been planned to have the marriage occur at the home of the bride's mother, but this was impossible as, unfortunately, Mr. Clarke was stricken several days ago with an attack of typhoid fever and at the time of the wedding was confined to his bed.

Mr. Clarke, who is an expert civil engineer and surveyor, was elected to the office of county surveyor on the Democratic ticket at the recent election. He came to this city from Findlay several years ago and is extremely popular. His bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. S. N. Patton, is a charming young woman, of winning personality, and a decided favorite in the exclusive society circles in which she moves.

David B. Hill, aged about 68 years, died very suddenly at his home on South High street yesterday morning at 8 o'clock from an attack of heart failure. He had arisen at the usual hour and went to the barn to do the milking which was his custom. Upon his return he ate a hearty breakfast and then decided to go to his farm where he was having some shredding done. Before doing so, however, he told his wife that he was going back to the barn to see about a number of calves he had been looking after. Remaining at the barn longer than she thought necessary and fearing Mr. Hill was having trouble with the animals, Mrs. Hill told their son, Walter, to go to his assistance. When the latter arrived at the barn he was horrified to find his father lying on the floor dead. He immediately gave the alarm and a physician was summoned, but life was extinct before his arrival.

Mr. Hill, who was a veteran of the Civil war, was one of the best known live stock dealers in this section, a prominent and well-to-do farmer, and one of the most highly respected citizens of Highland county.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. McGuire had gone out into the rear yard at his home and, later, when his wife went out to look for him, he was found lying on the ground dead. He had been in ill health for several months, but his death coming as it did, was a great shock to his family and friends. Margaret Maria Ballentine.

Born, February 10th, 1838; died October 12th, 1814.

"Between two breaths what crowded mysteries lie.
The first faint gasp, the last and long drawn sigh.
Like phantoms painted on the magic slide;
Forth from the darkness of the past we glide
As living shadows for a moment seen
In airy pageant on the eternal screen,
Traced by a ray from one unchanging flame
Then seek the dust and stillness whence we came.,'

When the subject of this sketch was born the youthful Queen Victoria had just ascended the the throne, and her brow had not yet felt the touch or weight of the crown of her wide realm of England. Andrew Jackson's term as President of the United States had terminated only a few months before; and she was more than two years old when Gen. William Henry Harrison was elected after the most strenuous political campaign in our history.

Much water has run under the bridge since that far hour, and the eyes that closed wearily and forever on Monday morning had looked upon the majority of the greatest events in the world's history.

She was the daughter of William and Sarah Haines, and was born half a dozen miles south of Hillsboro. Her mother died when she was five years old, and she resided until her 12th year with an aunt, Mrs. Sarah Manker. Then her father married again and with him she made her home until her marriage to Johnte L. Waln, on January 5th, 1858. To them a son, Walter L. Waln, was born on March 4th, 1860. Just one year later, on March 4th, 1861, the day that Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated for the first time President of the United States, she became a widow; less than six weeks later the storm of the great rebellion broke over her country, and the four strenuous years of Civil War were, for her, lonely, yet busy years of widowhood.

In 1866 she was married to James Ballentine. They made their home until his death, June 10th, 1890, near Berryville. Two children, Julia Blanche and Margaret M., were born to them.

The son, Walter, died June 19th 1892, and the daughter, Julia, on August 16th, 1909. Her surviving descendants are her daughter, Margaret M., Bruce L. Waln, of Dayton, Ohio, a grand-son and two grand-daughters. Besides these a brother, William, 90 years old, and a sister, Mrs. Lucy Lindsey, almost as old, reside in Iowa.

Since 1900 Mrs. Ballentine has made her home in Hillsboro with her daughter, Margaret, who, in her mother's declining years full of pain and suffering, has rendered the last full measure of devotion that the tenderest filial love and profoundest sense of duty could prompt or inspire; and this daughter's loyal, loving care and tenderness, the good old lady gratefully acknowledged as the crowning benediction of her long life.

Mrs. H. Gray died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Strabry, last Wednesday morning and was buried Friday morning in the Mowrystown cemetery. She was quite an aged lady and had been afflicted for a number of years. The children have the sympathy of this community in their bereavement.

In Memoriam.

Margaret Elva, daughter of Wm. F. and Eliza J. Hathaway, was born January 4, 1858, at New Petersburg, Ohio, died at Nov. 9, 1914, at the age of 56 years,, 10 months and 5 days. Hers was a christian life in the highest sense, having united with the M. E. Church at Salem, O., at an early age, believing in and practicing the teachings of her God. She was united in marriage to C. E. Shaw Oct. 23, 1880, he having preceded her to the better world June 21, 1901. To this union nine children were born, two of whom are at rest with their parents, while seven are left to mourn the loss of a kind and patient mother. She also leaves two brothers, J. Emerson Hathaway, of Hillsboro, and Lee J. Hathaway, of Middletown, and one sister, Mrs. Matilda Swisshelm, of Highland, O., besides other relatives and numerous friends.

She was a loving and generous mother, always trying to make the life of her children easier and happier.

Her life was not always smooth, there being many difficulties and obstacles to overcome, but her faith was in Him, "who worketh all things for the good of all" and she knew her faith was not in vain.

I never stand above the bier and see
The seal of death set on some well-loved face
But I think—One more to comfort me
When I shall cross the intervening space
Between this land and that one over there;
One more to make the strange beyond seem fair.

And so to me there is no sting to Death,
And the grave has lost its victory;
It is but crossing, with abated breath
And white set face—a strip of sea,
To find the loved ones on the other shore,
More beautiful, more lovely than before.

Memoir.

John Wesley, son of Washington and Eliza Russell Oldaker, came to gladden the home of this young couple Aug. 24, 1839, at their home near Russell. He was happily married to Amy C. Storer, of this neighborhood, April 3, 1877, who was his loving, faithful companion for over thirty-seven years. He grew to manhood on the farm and being the oldest son much of the work of making a happy home for the large family which came after him devolved on him and he was always the faithful helper of his father. He had a very bright intellect, was well educated, a most interesting conversationalist, a deep thinker and was a well-posted man on most good subjects. Brother was a successful teacher for many years both in Illinois and Ohio. During the Civil War he enlisted in the 4th Ohio Cavalry under Col. Wheeler and saw much hard service during that time, and loved in after years to talk over his soldier days and was loyal and true to the members of the Post and was always faithful and had a strong attachment for all his old comrades.

He held most of the high offices in the Grange and organized the granges of Highland county.

During a revival meeting held by Rev. Henry Middleton when brother was a young man he was wonderfully converted and was given an experience then that was a help to him in all his after life, and which he has related many times in our church service here and never after that time did he doubt God's power to save to the uttermost, and the influence of his noble christian life will live many, many years to come.

His place in church was scarcely ever vacant and when any one else failed to be there brother was there to do any and every thing to advance God's cause and works. He was a systematic giver to the church and one-tenth of his income went into the treasury of the Lord.

He was a tireless temperance worker and his last trip to Hillsboro was to distribute temperance literature. He lived prohibition, he talked prohibition and his one grand wish was to see his beloved Ohio triumph in the temperance cause.

He was a fine student and a few years ago took a course in bible study and received a diploma. He knew the bible almost by heart and was the source of information for our church and Sunday School and his loss to Russell church seems almost like a calamity, and his place will not be filled; but his work is done and well done and we will not begrudge him his laurels.

He was a great lover of nature and some of the happiest hours of his life were spent in the woods listening to the song of the birds and knew almost to a day the coming and going of the birds of spring and fall, but all is past and brother is gone. On the afternoon of Oct. 30, 1914, the summons which no ear but his could hear came suddenly and like Elijah of old the chariot swung low, his feet were loosened from earth, he stepped on and was gone to the home he talked and lived and prayed for where so many, many loved ones awaited his coming. Thus lived and died one of God's noblemen, a christian gentleman.

Besides his loving wife left so lonely, he leaves two brothers, Samuel, of Hermiston, Oregon, and Simpson, and four sisters, Eliza, Katharine and Mrs. Chris. Jonte, of this neighborhood, and Mrs. Will. Stoltz, of Vienna.

The funeral, in charge of Rev. Maddox, of Cincinnati, assisted by Rev. Austin, of Vienna, and Rev. Spurrier, of Lynchburg, was held Monday afternoon, Nov. 2, in the little home church he loved so well and was attended by a large crowd of old friends and neighbors and many members of the G. A. R., who assisted in the services. The casket was covered with beautiful flowers given by loving friends, one large piece from his Sunday School class, beautiful music was sung, some of his favorites he had sung so often with the Sunday School. Interment at Dunn's Chapel.

Farewell, dear brother, watch and wait for our coming.

Memoir.

In the home, in the early morning hours, there entered into rest eternal the sweet spirit of the mother of the household, Isiphene, daughter of Allen P. and Ann Harris. She was born near her old homestead Dec. 1, 1848, and passed out of life about one o'clock Dec. 2, 1914, aged 66 years and 1 day.

She was united in marriage to Perry Moberly May 9, 1875. God blessed them with two children, Burch Allen and Jennie Lee, now Mrs. Perry Emery, and three grand-children, Floyd Raymond and Denver Earl Moberly and Carl Cleo Emery. She was widely known and well-liked by everyone. To these children this mother was everything.

She had been in poor health for several years and was unable to have the pleasure of life. She united with no church, but loved the bible and was firm in her belief in it and in God. She hath changed the mantle of pain for the robe of peace; the cross of earth for the crown of glory; so sweet be the rest of this mother, this loved one, until in some happy clime thy face we see.

This dear woman leaves her husband, her grand-children and three sisters, Mrs. Olive L. Davidson, Mrs. Josephine Moberly and Mrs. Ardill Evans, and many other relatives and friends, far and near, who truly loved her. All that tread the globe are but a handful to the tribes that slumber in its bosom. All that breathe will share thy destiny. The gay will laugh when thou art gone, the solemn brood of care plod on, and each as before will chase his favorite phantom; yet all those shall leave their mirth and their employment and shall come and make their bed with thee. As the long train of ages glides away, one by one shall be gathered to thy side by their turns.

Funeral services were held at the house, conducted by Rev. Frank Foust, of Pricetown, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Barr cemetery.—O. D. D.

Mrs. Dice White, formerly of Ohio township, a Virginian by birth and a resident of Batavia township by time limit, says the Clermont Courier, and an inmate of the Clermont county infirmary for over 75 years, is lying at the point of death at that institution. She is 102 years old. Her father was a full-blooded Indian and her mother a white woman. A few years ago her only daughter died at this institution at the age of 75. She knew no home but the county house. The old lady has lived to see many changes in the management of the institution. She became an inmate when the infirmary was located on the Maham farm above Batavia, occupying the old brick house that stands in the rear of the Harsh Cover residence. From there the infirmary was moved to the present farm, and occupied a large brick structure that overlooked the East Fork from the hill above which was destroyed by fire some 40 years ago. After the fire the inmates, Dice White one of them, were moved to the foot of the hill where they occupied a temporary frame structure for several years, while the present structure was being built. Through all these changes and under many different managements she was an inmate, living to see a score of the superintendents pass away and she still lingers, but her time is drawing to a close. She has no living relatives, is of small stature, good disposition, brown skin and bears many resemblances of the Indian tribe to which her father belonged. She is the last of the old folks at the infirmary who were inmates many years ago.

The great interest which has been taken in the approaching union Gospel meetings was manifested last Sunday afternoon at an enthusiastic meeting held in the United Brethren Church by the different pastors and others who are earnestly laboring for its success.

Several new committees were appointed while others previously named made reports. The committee appointed to find a location for the tabernacle reported that it had several sites in view, but asked for a little more time in which to make a decision. This was granted and since that time C. F. Whisler has purchased the old Fallon property on the corner of Main and West streets and generously offered the vacant lot between the two residences on West St. for the purpose which was accepted. This lot is about 100 x 100 and in addition J. H. Wolfe has given permission to the committee to use a part of the lot in the rear of his coal office which will make the lot 100 feet wide and 125 feet deep. With this amount of space a building large enough can be erected to hold the immense crowds that no doubt will attend. The building is to be a substantial one and well lighted and heated, and the material for it has been ordered and work will be begun on its construction immediately. This work is to be done if possible by volunteer labor which our citizens will be called upon to donate.

The guarantee fund which only lacked a small amount last Sunday has since been pledged and everything will be in readiness for the first meeting which is scheduled for Sunday, January 3.

Another meeting of those interested is to be held at the Presbyterian Church next Sunday night. Out-of town people and pastors of every denomination throughout the county are urged to attend as these meetings are intended for the whole county. At the meeting at the Presbyterian Church Sunday night it is intended to have several persons from Chillicothe present and address those in attendance as the people of Chillicothe have just closed a very successful union Gospel meeting which had been held in a tabernacle erected for that purpose.

Besides the permanent officers and committees which we gave last week the following additional committees have been named:

Tabernacle Building Committee—Chas. F. Whisler, Chr., Van B. Miller, Charles Huggins, Col. L. B. Boyd, W. N. Bean, W. E. Caldwell, John S. Faris.

DEC. 25 1914

Colonel Eugene Zimmerman, well known to many of our citizens, died suddenly at the Queen City Club in Cincinnati last Sunday afternoon. He had been in ill health for several weeks and was warned by his physicians to remain in his room. He had been under medical treatment in his apartment at the club, but became impatient and decided he would go down stairs and write some letters, but he had hardly seated himself at a writing table when he was seized with a fit of coughing and in a few minutes he expired.

Some years ago Colonel Zimmerman owned a considerable amount of property in and near Hillsboro, among which were the Highland House, the old Cafe corner, the Pope farm east of town and the Copes farm on the New Market pike. Besides these Mr. Zimmerman at one time owned the Cloverdale stock farm near Highland which is considered one of the best farms in Southern Ohio.

Colonel Eugene Zimmerman had a long and remarkable career. He was born in Vicksburg, Miss., December 17, 1845, and on Thursday of last week celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday anniversary at the Queen City Club with a little dinner.

With his parents and two brothers, Thomas W., for many years manager of the Burnet House in Cincinnati, and Martin, a well-known wine merchant in New York, Colonel Zimmerman came to Cincinnati in 1856. The family located in Clifton. The head of the house only lived two years after arriving there, and his mother died two years later, in 1860.

Mr. Zimmerman was educated at Belmont College, College Hill and Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio. While at the latter institution the war broke out and he enlisted in the navy, and after competitive examination was made a master's mate. He participated in the bombardment of Vicksburg, in expeditions on various rivers and the capture of several important points. He retired at the end of the war with the rank of Lieutenant Commander.

He was married to Marietta A. Evans, in 1878. His wife only lived three years, leaving one daughter, Helena.

Mrs. Zimmerman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Evans, were residents of Hillsboro for a short time, having come here about twenty years ago from West Liberty, a small town near Urbana. They resided in the property where S. P. Scott now lives on West Main street and during their residence they were visited many times by the Colonel's daughter, Miss Helena Zimmerman, who is the present Duchess of Manchester, and who also is well known to many of our citizens. The arrangements for the funeral have not been made, as the Colonel's daughter will be unable to sail for America until to-morrow.
